

Sustainability Perspectives

Sustenance and Sustainability: A Personal Reflection on Food, Wellness and Sustainability

Laticia McNaughton, graduate student in the American Studies department at SUNY Buffalo, draws her academic work from native studies, food studies, and gender studies to discuss issues of sovereignty, revitalization of culture, traditional diet and language, and women's roles in influencing peace and war through preparing and serving food. Laticia invites us to stop for a moment and think about the importance of food in keeping ourselves and our planet healthy. This is an informal participatory session. Lunch is provided.

This talk is held in conjunction with the Wells In-Residence Program.

Monday, October 17, 2016 ~ 12:20 – 1:20PM
deWitt Lecture Hall, Zabriskie Hall Room 106

All Sustainability Perspectives series events are free and open to the public. The series explores the concept of 'sustainability' from a variety of viewpoints.

Wells is committed to providing access to all events; anyone needing assistance should contact Marian Brown, Center for Sustainability and the Environment, at 315-364-3304 or by email at mbrown@wells.edu, as soon as possible.
