

Rajiv Ramchandra is the founder of In Wise Company \(IWC\), a sustainability and circular economy leadership and management advisory enterprise. He is also the founder of Recreate India Research Foundation \(Re:CREATe\), India's first research and advocacy enterprise to advance the remanufacturing industry in the nation. In December 2020, Re:CREATe received the prestigious 'Remanufacturer of the Year' Award from Rematec in Amsterdam, The Netherlands.

Rajiv has previously served as Assistant Vice President of a consulting firm in India specializing in corporate sustainability and policy research. He also served as the Business Manager, and in engineering roles for nearly seven years at the New York State Pollution Prevention Institute \(NYSP2I\) housed at the Rochester Institute of Technology's (RIT) Golisano Institute for Sustainability \(GIS\).

He holds an ME in Mechanical Engineering (2006) from the University of Sussex in England, an ME in Engineering Management (2009) from the Kate Gleason College of Engineering and an MBA (2014) from the Saunders College of Business, both at RIT. He successfully completed the Business Sustainability Management program of study (2017) from the University of Cambridge Institute for Sustainability Leadership \(CISL\) in England, and holds the SEA credential (2020) administered by the Green Business Certification Inc. (GBCI).

Rajiv has worked with organizations in diverse industries including food manufacturing, pulp and paper manufacturing, metal finishing, healthcare, think tanks, and government bodies. His interests include the evolution of business models, the power of systemic changes in economic and industrial systems towards greater circularity.