What Does Toxic-Free Look Like? The example of PFAS in Food Packaging

Bobbi Wilding, co-founder and Deputy Director of Clean and Healthy NY will explain that when we don't consider health and environmental impacts when seeking to meet people's needs, we end up with harmful chemicals in places people never expect. We'll look at the example of how PFAS chemicals ended up in food packaging, and what kind of solutions we can move to from there. We'll also zoom back out and discuss the kind of economy we need to prevent these kinds of harmful mistakes.
