*“God’s in his heaven—
All’s right with the world”:*

The power of story in communicating climate change

Fae Dremock, assistant professor of Environmental Studies and Sciences at Ithaca College will explain that what’s happening to the ecosystem as a result of global climate change is terrifying. Explaining the possibility of human extinction, and making clear the subsequent extremely urgent need to move to sustainable, regenerative lifestyles, is absolutely vital— yet the obstacles of belief, fear of change, and the frenzy of fake news are formidable. In this talk, we take a look at the power of story as a tool to undermine science— and as a tool to fight back.

Monday, April 1, 2019 ~ 12:20 – 1:20PM
deWitt Lecture Hall, Zabriskie Hall Room 106

All Sustainability Perspectives series events are free and open to the public.
The series explores the concept of ‘sustainability’ from a variety of viewpoints.

Wells is committed to providing access to all events; anyone needing assistance should contact Marian Brown, Center for Sustainability and the Environment, at 315-364-3304 or by email at mbrown@wells.edu, as soon as possible.
