

Nandita Bajaj is the Executive Director of Population Balance, where she also co-hosts The Overpopulation Podcast. As faculty with the Institute for Humane Education at Antioch University, Nandita teaches two courses: “Human Rights” as well as “Pronatalism, Overpopulation & the Planet”, a first-of-its-kind course that she designed.

Nandita earned a Master of Education degree, specializing in Humane Education from Antioch University New England. Nandita had an eclectic undergraduate background. She first earned a Bachelor of Engineering in Aerospace, Aeronautical and Astronautical Engineering from Ryerson University, then earned a second Bachelor’s degree in Secondary Education and Teaching of Physics and Mathematics from the University of Toronto.

Nandita was born and raised in India and has lived in Toronto, Canada for over 20 years.