

Sustainability Film Screening

a collaboration between the Center for Sustainability and the Environment and Wells Campus Greens

Is climate change a scientific problem? An engineering problem? A psychological problem? All that, and more? COMFORT ZONE takes an in-depth look at what happens when global climate issues come to our backyards. The specific setting is Upstate New York, but the effects, both subtle and profound, illustrate the kinds of effects that can happen anywhere. COMFORT ZONE is an engaging, consciousness-changing, and often funny film that presents a global issue from a personal perspective, challenging us to confront our own connection to climate change.

Thursday, March 19, 2015 - 7:00P.M.
Stratton 209

Free and open to the public