Principles of a Pluralist Commonwealth for a Sustainable Cayuga

J. Justin Woods is the county administrator for Cayuga County. He will explain how on Principles of a Pluralist Commonwealth, Gar Alperovitz, co-founder of The Democracy Collaborative and co-chair of the Next System Project, continues to build the historical case that large-scale corporate capitalism is incompatible with democracy, equality, and ecological sustainability. In addition to discussing these transformational principles – pluralism, cooperation, decentralization, community, and environmental sustainability – Mr. Woods will outline a policy vision for how we can collectively build a more sustainable Cayuga County.
